Reagan accepts Salvador dangers

VOL. VI NO. 102

WASHINGTON, March 7 (R) - President Reagan accepts that there are risks to sending U.S. military personnel to El Salvador but sees no need to send combat troops to protect the advisers already there.

Reagan told a press conference Friday his dministration would view with alarm a coup in El Salvador but did not say whether the United States would out off military and economic aid in such an event, "We realize there is a risk and danger" to the nearly 60 U.S. military instructors and advisers in the violence-torn Central Americao nation, Reagan said.

We can't I'm sorry to say, make it riskfree. We shall do the utmost to provide for their safety." He said the Americans would live and work in military garrison and would not be going into combat or accompanying Salvadoreau troops into battle.

There has been concern voiced here over the possible consequences of a decision to send in armed U.S. troops to protect the Americans working with the Salvadorean

Reagan's statement that the United States would disapprove of a coup was apparently prompted by remarks made hy a former Salvadorean intelligence officer this week that the Reagan administration would favor a military takeover. The authorities in San Salvador have ordered the arrest of Maj. Robert d'Abuissoo, saying his comments amounted to supporting insurrection.

Reagan also sought to defuse criticism that he is rushing into an uncertain situation in El Salvador. "I didn't start the El Salvador thing, I inherited it," he said. In Congress Thursday, Democrat Senators Edward Kennedy and Paul Tsongas said they planned to introduce legislation halting U.S. military aid Reagan said the U.S. role in El Salvador is to help halt "infiltration into the Americas by terrorists ... who aren't just aiming at El Salvador but ... at the whole of central and possibly later south America and I'm sure eventually north America."

In response to other questions, Reagan said: - His economic program doesn't promise an "instant cure" but that he expects to see the first signs of recovery before the end of

- Continued to insist his budget cuts won't hurt the truly needy. "We find that we are giving the benefits of the program to people who do not have real need and for which the program was not originally intended."

 Suggested a constitutional amendment hanning abortion would oot be necessary if a legal determination is made that human life begins at conception.

- Compared efforts to halt drug smuggling to "carrying water in a sieve" and said he plans a White House drug abuse policy that will stress the importance of taking customers away from drug peddlers.

- Said no decision has been made on the question of limiting Japanese automobile

- Insisted he had no regrets about lifting controls on domestic crude oil prices in the ace of government figures showing vholesale energy costs up 3.6 per cent last

- Reiterated that the administration has nade no decision on whether to lift the parial grain emhargo the Carter administration mposed against the Soviet Union in retaliaion for its occupation of Afghanistan.

Reagan refused to say whether he would; eto any Congressionally-enacted tax cuts but are at odds with his own economic progam calling, for a 10 per cent reduction in ncome tax rates for individuals, effective

RAWALPINDI, March 7 - Pakistan Saturday accused Kabul government of "collusion and conmivance" with the three hijackers who killed a Pakistani diplomat Friday and are holding another 115 passengers on a hijacked PIA Boeing at Kabul airport since Monday last. Secretary-General of Defense and Chairman of the Pakistan International Airlines Maj. Gen. (retired) Rahim Khan told reporters here the government had enough proof that authorities in Kabul were party to the systematic and well-planned act of terrorism, an instrument of political

Khan said that government's response to some demands of the hijackers would be communicated through wireless by 3.00 p.m., Kabul time, the deadline set by the hijackers after which they have declared to kill the passengers one by one. The official complained that the demands of the terrorists were still vague as they had failed to indentify the persons whose release was demanded by

He said that Kabul authorities had prevented a direct contact between Pakistani officials and the hijackers to arrive at a settlement and the proposal to send a rescue mission had not been responded at all. An anti-terrorist squad meanwhile waited at a military airbase and could fly to Kabul oo a green signal. The anti-terrorist squad has had successful attempts of overpowering hijackers in the past.

Cooperation talks begin in Muscat

MUSCAT, March 7-(Agencies) - Officials from six Arah Gulf states met Saturday to work out details of a plan to bind their countries closer together and safeguard stability in the Gulf.

The plan, annouoced last month, is to set up a Gulf cooperation council as a framework for coordinating government policies, with the aim of welding the Gulf states into a commonity similar to the 10-oatloo Economic European Community.
The officials from Saudi Arabia, Kuwait,

the United Arab Emirates (UAE), Qatar, Oman and Bahrain are discussing the council's constitution and details of how it will operate, Gulf government source said.

Foreign ministers of the six meet here
Monday to consider the results. The sources said the aim of the couocil was to produce effective economic, political and security to resist external dangers the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan and the Iran-Iraq war, which have threatened the area in the last two

A council of heads of state and another of ministers are to meet regularly, and there is to be a body to mediate in disputes and a secretariat hased in Riyadh. Projects for joint action will be proposed both by the secretariat and the ministers and passed to the heads of state for final approval.

The sources said major issues to he settled by the Muscat meetings iocluded arrangements for voting in the councils. A possible formula was that a manimous vote would he needed to decide fundamental issues, hut procedural matters would be passed by a two-third majority.

Gulf officials say that cooperation will eventually cover all government policies, including defense and internal security, vital concerns in countries which together produce a quarter of all the oil used in the noncommunist world.

Despite their close links with the West the six are determined to protect themselves without outside military support. But the officials stress that the council will start hy trying to harmonize activities in less dramatic areas such as the economy, education and transport.

Gulf diplomatie sources said the war between Iran and Iraq has played an important part in prompting a desire for closer cooperation among their neighbors.

Peace in Gulf looks remote

JEDDAH, March 7 — Despite intensive Islamie mediation efforts, early peace between Baghdad and Tehran seemed remote Saturday as both governments reiterated their positions over the Islamic package proposal to end the Gulf war.

Iraqi and Iranian officials however told Arab News Saturday that their governments have yet to send their replies to the Organization of the Islamic Conference, the sponsor of the goodwill mission.

Asghar Nahavandian, Iran's charge d'affairs in Jeddah, said Saturday that no formal communication, was received from his government, although the Iranian Supreme Defense Council rejected the proposals Fri-

But an Iraqi embassy spokesman said he expected Baghdad's reply to be delivered to the OIC in a day or two." We want peace, we want this war to come to an end," the spokesman said.

OIC officials in Jeddah were not available Saturday for comment, and the organization kept silent for the third day Saturday over its proposed peace package to the warring countries of Iraq and Iran. Nahavandian reiterated his government's stand that the Algiers' Agreement of 1975 signed by the late Shah and the present Iraqi President Saddam Hussein "should be the hasis for oegotiations." But this was rejected and the Iraqi spokesmao said the agreement would mean the loss of the Shatt al Arah estuary "which is one hundred per cent

The spokesman did not rule out the possibility of negotiating what " facilities" Iran might get under a renewed dialogue in an atmosphere of pcace.

At the same time, he said Iraq was "ready to support any efforts to solve the conflict on the basis of principles already declared."

Iraq has been demanding full sovereignty over the vital Shatt al-Arab waterway, dividing Iran and Iraq in the south and previously shared under the 1975 Algiers Accord.

The seven-nation Islamic mission called for an Islamic mediation committee to settle the waterway dispute and negotiations to solve other issues, including Iraq's demand for the return of certain border areas.

Seminar discusses women's social role

By Raana Siddiqi
JEDDAH, March 7 — A two-day seminar sponsored by Al-Faisaliyah Women's Welfare Society concluded at the Sheraton Hotel here Thursday.

For the first time, all women's welfare groups in the Kingdom jointly discussed subjects of mutual interest. More than 200 women, including members of the royal family and other prominent personalities, were invited to the first session Wednesday.

Princess Hissa bint Khaled, president of Al-Faisaliyah Society, opened the seminar with a speech, in which she welcomed the delegates. She especially sent a warm welcome to Effat King Faisal's widow who was represented at the seminar by her daughter Princess Sarah Al-Faisal.

Princess Hissa described Effat as a pioneer of social work among women in the Kingdom, as she was the first to establish a women's society in the country. She said the aim of organizing the seminar is to reinforce contacts among the women's societies, to exchange views and suggestions and to benefit from those who earlier worked in the social field. She added that the aim of promoting contacts among the women's societies is to educate the society on their importance and role in uplifting Saudi Arabian women and enlightening them on their legitimate right to social work.

Prince Hissa said further that the state has been doing a lot for women, but they must themselves be conscious of their role in the building of the society, according to the injunctions of the faith.

Effat's speech was read by Princess Sarah Al-Faisal, which was followed by a speech from Prince Fahd ibn Sultan, deputy minister for social welfare. It was read by Miss Amaal Qabel, director of women's social supervision of the Western Province.

In its Thursday's session, the seminar made certain recommendations, which included the setting up of clubs, launching of campaigns for educating the society on charitable work and promoting the project of "payment of one riyal" to boost the society's funds for charitable projects.

The seminar recommended social service in rural and remote areas, cooperation among the women's societies, establishment of joint projects, raising of annual aids from the Ministry of Social welfare and requesting the ministry to give 100 per cent aid to boost construction projects. The seminar further recommended that the ministry pay the salaries of permanent posts at the societies and give authority to its branch offices in routine works. Other recommendations included benefit from

In five years

Crop self-sufficiency envisioned

DHAHRAN, March 7 (AP) - Farmers in the Kingdom may be producing enough crops within the next five years to enable Saudi Arabia to be self-sufficient in fresh vegetables year-round, an agricultural expensaid. Sami Labban, manager of the agriculture assistance program of the Arabian-American Oil Company (ARAMCO), said that with the continued development of a network of communications, marketing and cold storage facilities and of controlled environment farming in green bouses, Saudi Arabia could replace imports of fresh vegetables during non-growing seasons by the mid-1980s. Labhan said the Kingdom has for two years been self-sufficient in vegetables during the growing seasons, but noted that imports are still necessary at various times to supplement lower crop yields in various regions of the country during their off seasons. Though Saudi Arabia is comprised largely of barren desert it possesses five areas where vegetable production is possible. The areas include Al Hasa and Oatif in the Eastern Province, and Al Kharj and Oasim in the Central Province.

All four areas are watered through local artesian wells, or ground water. The fifth area is the temperate and mountainous southern Asir region, which relies heavily on rainfall for water.

Labban's prediction on self-sufficiency was based on the success of current efforts by the Ministry of Agriculture to develop facilities which will enable farmers in distant regions of the Kingdom to ship produce surpluses during their growing seasons to other regions in their off seasons.

The Kingdom is so wide elimatically because of its vast size we could be supplementing each other with many crops if good Labban, who has worked for 24 years as an agricultural adviser here, said the other factor assisting in self-sufficiency would be the continued development of green house like "bydroponic" farms.

The farms which grow crops inside a cooled building will be used primarily to produce during off seasons when they can successfully compete with higher priced imported vegetables from Jordan and Lebanon.

The ARAMCO manager said hydroponic farming was growing "very fast" partly due to government incentives such as loans and subsidies up to half of the project cost.

OIC PEACE PLAN

The committee entrusted by the Organization of Islamic Conference with the task of hammering out an agreement to end the Iraq-Iran war, has, now given both sides its proposals, and can only await their answers. The cornerstone of the OIC plan, is a week-long ceasefire, and then a phased Iraqi withdrawal over four weeks, followed by negotiations around the issues outstanding between the two countries.

The fear that Iran's position will not shift from its hard line, which has always been expressed in a demand for a total and unconditional Iraqi withdrawal, was soon confirmed. The country's Supreme Defense Council has officially rejected the OIC's plan, thus showing that the earlier unofficial rejections by both the Iranian president and some religious leaders were not, as some had hoped, moves designed to improve the country's bargaining

For their part, the Iraqis' response has been that same mixture of readiness for peace coupled with threats of intensifying the conflict in the event of Iran's unamenability. It is thus expected that Iraq will soon unleash some punitive measures along one of the fighting fronts.

There is no doubt that the conciliation effort on the part of the Islamic states deserves support and gratitude. But there is also the feeling that it was based more on good intentions than the reality of the situation. Each of the two regimes has made no secret of its hope that the long struggle will result in the toppling of its opponent Their differences over border demarcation predate both regimes and will probably outlast them. And it was these historic issues which should have been dealt with first by

But now that Iran has refused mediation, all this is. academic. The war will go on and the Iraqis will feel that they can turn the screw further, their willingness to come to terms having been spurned.

Ethiopia 'diverting' Western aid into war effort

KHARTOUM -Ethiopian nationalists have accused the Sovietbacked regime in Addis Ababa of diverting Westinto the war effort and called on Western countries to reconsider a large offer of economic aid now pending. "Increased humanitarian assistance to the Soviet-hacked Ethiopian military dictatorship will not reach the needy," charged a spokesman for the Oromo Liberation Front (OLF) in a lengthy interview. "Instead, it will be used to prolong the main source of human suffering in Ethiopia."

The OLF's Yohannes Lata criticized a United Nations proposal to give Ethiopia over $1 billion in emergency assistance and said: "The junta is diverting the major share of its internal resources into huying sophisticated Soviet weapons to maintain Black Africa's largest standing army, while at the same time seeking massive Western subsidies under the false pretence of drought relief."

Ethiopia has received over $2 hillion in Soviet military hardware since 1977, according to Western intelligence sources. The hulk of the country's non-military aid has been supplied by the West, with the European Economic Community recently pledging $250 million over and above an earlier promise of $400 million for the next five years. The United States is also providing the government with substantial cash and food aid through the Ethiopian Relief and Rehabilitation Commission.

A team of U.N.-sponsored journalists is now touring Ethiopia to evaluate further relief requests, following a recommendation by the United Nations Disaster Relief Organization (UNDRO) to raise $1.1 hillion this year. Much of this aid is for the resettlement of millions of Ethiopian peasant farmers and nomads who the Ethiopian government claims were displaced by drought. The OLF, how-ever, accuses the regime of covering up the fact that most are the victims of war which continues to escalate on four simultaneous hattlefronts. The UNDRO report makes no mention of armed conflict in Ethiopia

Ethiopia's published budget does not mention military expenditures which the OLF fighters say have exceeded 70 per cent of government spending since 1978, excluding external arms purchases from the Soviet Union whose exact costs and methods of payment are not known. Now in its fourth year of armed oppositon to the government, OLF seeks what it terms "self determination" for the 18 million Oromo (Galla) people who make up more than half Ethiopia's population. OLF operates in the coffee-rich southern and western areas of Ethiopia, known as Oromia, which border Somalia, Kenya

OLF also cooperates with nationalist forces in the Red Sea territory of Eritrea and in Ethiopia's northern Tigray and southeastern Ogaden regions. The Eritrean People's Liheration Front (EPLF) recently issued a statement in Rome denouncing the UNDRO report, while the Tigray People's Liberation Front (TPLF) has called for an arms and aid boycott of Ethiopia.

Ostensible programs set up to relieve the suffering, such as resettlement camps, said the OLF spokesman, have in reality been used for political purposes directly linked to the war. Lata charged that the principal source of civilian displacement is the fighting in Oromia, Eritrea, Ogaden and Tigray where, he said, "widespread aerial and artillery bombardment combined with murderous infantry sweeps has razed whole villages to the ground and destroyed cattle and crops indiscriminately." "It is no accident that observers touring Ethiopia from the government side are only taken to the rural areas near Addis Ababa and to the few secure towns and cities...." he said.

The fighters' leaders say that grain donated for humanitarian purposes in Ethiopia is being sold to sons. Both the EPLF and the TPLF have recently displayed photographs of relief supplies captured in raids on Ethiopian army outposts and military convoys. Two Volvo trucks donated by the Swedish International Development Agency (SIDA) and 2.600 tons of EEC grain were recently taken by the TPLF during an attack on the Sekota military camp in Tigray, according to a TPLF spokesman here. Oromo nationalists also charge that relief supplies are being used as "bait" to attract war victims to government resettlement camps. Some 250,000 peasants of Amhara nationality were recently moved to Oromo areas and armed by Cuban military advisers at the Tatak training camp near Addis Ababa in what OLF claimed was "a transparent effort to colonize rebellious regions".

According to the OLF spokesman, the displaced Oromo are now receiving relief aid in neighboring Somalia from the same international organizations being asked to fund the Ethiopian resettlement campaign. Over two million Ethiopian refugees are now estimated to be in Somalia with Sudan claiming 400,000 and up to 100,000 reported in Disbouri and Kenya.

Ethiopia bases part of its current requests for Western aid on claims that refugees are now returning home, but Sidanese officials in Khartourn say that less than 200 Ethiopians accepted government offers to repatriate last year, while 16,678 crossed into Sudan in the Gedaref area alone during the same period. A report by an aid commission put the rate of refugees arriving in Somalia at 2,500 per day in the middle of 1980. (ONS)

Kabul gripped by new unrest

By Anthony Hyman

LONDON . Details have come out of Afghanistan of a recent Muslim fighters' offensive in Kabul which provoked an intensive security operation and ended in the arrest of several suspected resistance leaders. Concerted attacks on four public buses in the Char-Asyab district, (on the outskirts of Kabul) in the afternoon of Jan. 27 marked the beginning of a new wave of violence. Public transport services outside the city were suspended, and on the same night, soon after curfew began at 11 p.m., Muslim fighters in the central area of Karte-Naw attacked a jeep patrol, killing or wounding five Afghan and Soviet The biggest action took place on Jan. 29 when at

The prospect of renewed anti-Soviet demonstrations by high-school students in Kabul was raised in a recent pamphlet by the Women's Revolutionary Society, a group of educated women nationalists, many of them leachers. Obote faces threat of open. guerrilla war

By. Thomas Lansner

KAMPALA -War-ravaged Uganda faces the threat of new upheavals from a guerrilla army said to be led by Yoweri Museveni, head of the Ugandan Patriotic Movement, a small leftist political party which won one seat in December's general elections. Museveni disappeared from the Ugandan capital, Kampala, four weeks ago. A day later, a dmilitary training barracks at Kabamba, 100 miles west of Kampala, was attacked.

Travelers report that Museveni addressed a crowd of several hundred villagers at Kiboga, west of Kambamha, declaring "open guerrilla war against the government of President Milton Obote and his ruling Uganda People's Congress Party. His not a threat which the government is taking idly. Museveni trained in Tanzania and Mozambique while in exile during the regime of Idi Amin, andled guerrilla forces against Amin's troops during the liberation war two years ago.

Several police stations in Kampala have beer attacked, and the army has launched arms searches throughout the capital in reply. Hundreds of soldiers have used the military operations as an opportunity for theft. At least six persons have been man dered and hundreds of homes have been looted.

Officers seemed to regain some control of their troops after three days of chaos and offered u return some of the property pillaged by what an officially described as "lawless elements." However, the army rampage is bound to increase public support for dissident movements like that led by Museveni

A representative of a group calling itself the Movement for the Struggle for Political Rights elaimed in Nairobi last month that Museveni has 5,000 armed men in western Uganda and would encircle the capital in four to six weeks. Although the claim is almost certainly exaggerated, persistent reports are reaching the capital of ambushes on a heavily patrolled route in the west.

Dissident sources say Museveni's guerrillas hav formed a loose alliance with another anti-Obot group, the Uganda Freedom Movement. Closer de are inhihited hy ideological differences over the conduct of the struggle and its leadership.

Several UPM and Democratic Party politican have been detained since the unrest began. The secretary-general of the UPM, Bidandi-Ssali, two Democratic Party MPs and several other prominen opposition spokesmen are held without charges Officials sources refuse comment, but Democrati Party leader Paul Ssemongerere made his opinion clear when he met Obote recently. "We demander" their release," he said afterwards. "They wen arrested illegally and they are being held illegally without a court order for their detention.

The attacks are bound to worsen Uganda's preent economie disorder. Shops in Kampala sin empty of salt, sugar, soap, cigarettes, matches and paraffin. The weekly ration of 30 liters of gasoline in hard to come by.

The air of confidence after Obote's return to power in December has all but evaporated. The small reservoir of goodwill among the Baganda it the south of the country, who voted 50 per cent for the Democratic Party, has been largely squandered by the government's failure to deal with the economy and military indiscipline.

Arabian Press

Newspapers Saturday mostly led with the seminar to be held Sunday by the Ministry of Finance and National Economy to discuss the requirements of Saudi Arabian economy and the Kingdom's achievements in the field of economic development. Some gave lead prominence in Iran's rejection of the proposals submitted by the Islamic goodwill committee, while Al Medina carried as its lead story the U.S. administration's official announcement of its resolve to sell F-15 accessories 10 Saudi Arabia.

in a broad from-page story, Okaz quoted PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat as saving there is not going to be any Jordanian-Palestinian summit meeting in the very near future. They also frontpaged Washington's resolve on the supply of F-15 aircraft accessories to the Kingdom. Iran's refusal to accept the proposals of the Islamic goodwill committee and its insistence on linking the ceasefire to the withdrawal of the Iraqi forces found front-page coverage in the newspapers.

In a page one story, Al Jazirah quoted the Chinese ambassador to the Kingdom as saying the Chinese government and people are eagerly looking forward to the visit of King Khaled at the earliest opportunity. Some newspapers gave front-page highlight to the meetings of the Gulf technical committee beginning in Muscal Saturday to draft the statute for the Gulf Cooperation Council.

Newspaper editorials called upon the Islamic states to adopt a firm stance to enable the Islamic goodwill committee to realize its objectives of bringing about rapprochement between Iraq and Iran. Al Jazirah noted that when the good will committee began its task it had not imagined that alien anti-Islamic forces would make it their primary concern to embitter fraternal relations between the Islamie states. It said these forces are trying to creare justification for military intervention in the region under the smokescreen of protecting the region's peace, security and stability. The paper, however, expressed its full confidence in the committee and hoped it would produce desired results, though its task is extremely difficult and replete with many a slip and risk on its path. It was the paper's firm conviction that the committee would succeed in its mission despite the intrigues of anti-Islamie elements and their amhitious designs in the region.

On the same subject, Al Medina urged the Islamic states to stand resolutely behind the goodwill committee, in order to enable it to find ways and means to implement the resolutions of the third Islamic summit conference on stopping bloodshed between Iraq and Iran. The paper reaffirmed that the committee's resolutions were based on neutral attitude and worked to find a just and equitable solution on the hasis of the charter of the Organization of Islamie Conference (OIC). Despite the hard line that is being followed by the parties concerned, the paper hoped that a way would be found to let prudence prevail and allow them to work for pan-Islamie interests. It was quite hopeful that both Iraq and Iran would accept a settlement and cease fight-

Okaz also observed that the Islamie nation cherished great hopes that Iraq and Iran would respond to the proposals made by the goodwill committee and would put an end to the bloodshed. The committee embarked on its difficult task out of a firm conviction that every dispute can be peacefully solved if the parties concerned do not take recourse to arms. Taking in view the religious link and neighborliness, the paper said, both Iraq and Iran would favorably respond to the wishes of the Islamic world so its funds could be used for construction rather than for destruction.

The paper reminded that the nation was in pressing need for exerting efforts toward its major issue, which is the liberation of Jerusalem from the Zionist sacrilege. It gave out a warning that hostile elements in the world are anxiously hoping to see the committee failing in its mission, so they can implement their plans through the Zionist-communist

In an editorial, Okaz referred to the colossal nature of responsibility being shouldered by the goodwill committee, and said it would need to make a lot of endeavor and sacrifice to realize its nobleobjectives. The paper, however, insisted that there ought to he no pessimism as a result of the Iranian defense council's rejection of the committee's proposals. It said that what the Islamic states are doing is aimed at restoring cordiality and friendship between the two warring Islamic states of the reg-

HOUSTON — "When you look at my paintings you know how I feel," said Abdullah (Nawawy) Flemban, at an exhibition of his work in Houston, Texas. The fine arts exhibition was held recently at the Saudi Arabian Educational Mission and was, according to Abdullah, the first art show to be held in Houston by anyone from Saudi Arabia.

Abdullah Flemban, a young Saudi Arabian who has just received his masters degree in painting from Adams State College in Colorado, says that art is an excellent means of educating people about countries and cultures they know nothing about or do not understand. Since there is oo language barrier in art, it also is probably one of the easiest and simplest means. "Alot of people may not understand by speech, but they can understand a lot about other countries and cultures by looking at paintings," be explained.

Abdullah's paintings reveal the Saudi Arabian lifestyle. His themes range from religion and architecture to beautiful landscapes. His favoritesubjects are those that contain a feeling of the past, the old rather than the new. "I like old things because I like to keep it with me," he said. Things such as architecture b ave to be removed to make way for the new, and art helps keep intact a feeling of the past, be added.

When Abdullah paints he "takes everything and puts it together" — like the pieces of a puzzle. He draws upon bits and pieces of his imagination, experience, memories, and knowledge to create a complete picture. The most time-consuming part of painting is, for him, the subject. "To do the actual painting does not take much time, maybe one-and-a-half to two bours. Its coming up with a subject that takes time."

Besides depicting a variety of themes, his paintings reflect a variety of mediums. He uses oils, water-colors, charcoals, print making, and silk screens. He also enjoys sculpting. The Houston exhibition was Abdullah's fourth show in the United States. He has plans, be said, of returning soon to Saudi Arabia and "maybe become a teacher." Abdulllah said there is a demand for artists in the Kingdom and "the Saudi Arabian Government cares about its artists. The government does a lot to promote art and they sponsor a lot of art shows."

Talent does not stop at Abdullah in the Flemban family. His brother Zaki also took part in the fine arts exhibition with a display of some of his favorite photographs. Zaki also graduated from Adams State College, with a baccalaureate degree in physical education.

While in school be took some courses in photography and grew to love it. Photography quickly became his new bobby.

Zaki uses a Minolta camera for all of his color photographs. He develops his own film and does all of his own printing. His favorites are his abstracts and close-ups. Zaki said he first abstracts and close-ups. Zaki said he first got involved in photography because he was just a little jealous of his other brothers who are all artists. "I took photography to join with them in art," he said with a smile. Photography is not a difficult bobby, according to him. "It's not hard if you enjoy it but it is expensive."

The most important aspect of photography is the eye of the artist. "A good photographer needs a nice eye because the eye draws the picture you want to paint or print," he explained. Zaki also plans to return to Saudi Arabia and hoping to work in both physical education and photography. He is plunning to hold more shows in the Kingdom, photograph more pictures of bis native country and publish them in a book form.

'Afghans denied human rights'

GENEVA, March 7 (AP) - For the second consecutive year, the United Nations Human Rights Commission adopted a measure insisting that Soviet military forces be withdrawn from Afghanistan.

Lack of arms hits Afghan fighters

PARIS, March 7 (R) - An Afghan resistance leader from the Kabul area was quoted as saying that a shortage of arms made a general uprising there impossible.

Muhammad Amin Wardak, a tribal chieftain and resistance leader in the Wardak region west of Kahul, told AFP that any insurrection would be brutally suppressed by the Soviet army. "The conditions for a general uprising by the Kabul population are not right," he said. "We lack weapons and it would serve no end to fight Soviet tanks and soldiers bare-handed."

Wardak said he considered his area "liberated" because Soviet 1100ps and the Afghan army "can launch only periodic operations in our area." He said these operations lasted between one to two weeks and were held "about once every four months."

The measure also urged a "political settlement on the situation in Afghanistan on the basis of the withdrawal of foreign troops." The wording was slightly less insistent than that of a resolution passed last year by the 43-member commission. That measure contained language condemning the Soviet military intervention of December 1979, deploring it as a flagrant violation of international law.

The Soviet delegation called this year's measure "odious and unrealistic" and said its approval would heighten tensions in the reg-

Greece seeks American guarantee

ATHENS, March 7 (R) — Greece has usked the United States to guarantee the security of its borders in the Aegean and to maintain the balance of power in the area, Foreign Minister Constantine Mitsotakis

Mitsotakis told reporters Friday that a defense agreement to govern the future status and operation of American military bases in Greece in exchange for U.S. military aid will be signed late in March or early April.

Talks are being held in Athens on an agreement between the two countries to ensure the continued operation of four major U.S. bases and several minor installations in Greece. Mitsotakis said that Greece had submitted five letters on the terms of the agreement to the United States, three of which covered its military aspects.

The other two were concerned with "the political aspects such as the halance of power in the Aegean which Greece wants maintained at the present ratio of seven to ten in favor of Turkey and the guaranteeing by the United States of the security of Greece's border in the Aegean."

ders in the Aegean," he said.

In an unrelated development, West German Foreign Vinister Hans Dietrich Genscher flies to Washington Sunday intent on urging a speedy resumption of U.S.-Soviet arms talks to help end the chill between East and West. His top is seen here as providing a key chance to ensure that Bonn's views are taken into account by the Reagan administration as it decides policy options and weighs Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev's proposal for a summit meeting.

Genscher and Chancellor Helmut Schmidt met with Reagan soon after his November election victory, but the talks next Monday and Tuesday mark the first such contacts since the president took power.

West German officials said Genscher's meetings with Secretary of State Alexander Haig, President Reagan and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger will range widely over world issues, although East-West relations and NATO policy will form the focus. Bonn is clearly wary of the tough Reagan stance against Moscow, and in comments before his trip Genscher has stressed Washington assurances that the United States still favors a dialogue.

In a press statement issued Friday, the foreign minister said that West Germany welcomed the U.S. and Soviet readiness to intensify talks on disarmament.

RUSTENBURG, March 7 (AP) — A hlack man was killed and several others hurt in this South African town, 70 kms. from Pretoria, Friday night during a stone-thowing incident that followed a police crackdown on "pirate taxis," the South African Press Association (SAPA) reported.

SAPA said the fatality occurred when a hlack jumped from a bus that was being stoned by blacks and was crushed under its wheels. Another black man was seriously injured in a hit-and-run accident during the incident, SAPA said, A third man was shot and wounded by a policeman, but was not seriously injured, police said.

In his inaugural speech the prime minister of Kuwait tackled the issue of setting up the "Gulf cooperation council" which was anoounced recently by six peninsular states - Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Bahrain, Oatar, the United Arab Emirates and Oman. The prime ministter denied all reports that consider the council as a new pact in the region. "The council was an attempt to organize the existing cooperation of member countries to enable them to protect their legitimate interests, and to coordinate their participation in the welfare of humanity", the prime minister added.

Japanese car imports

Reagan team split over curbs

WASHINGTON, March 7 (R) - President Ronald Reagan bas said a decision on whether to restrict Japanese car imports would depend on a meeting next week with his special task force studying the major financial problems of domestic car makers.

Two bills have been submitted in Coogress that would severely limit car imports from Japan. The Reagan cabinet is reported to be split over whether restrictions are needed. "We baven't reached a decision on this," Reagan told a press conference.

Meanwhile, U.S. Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis said that if the United States decided to seek a negotiated reductioo in Japanese car imports, it would expect concessions from the United Auto Workers' Union (WAW).

Lewis heads an administration task force which will make recommendations to the president on the issue.

Japan is exporting cars to the United States at an annual rate of 1.9 million, and cuts under discussion could reduce this to 1.4 to

Lewis told reporters after a meeting with Reagan and eight governors from industrial states be favored a negotiated and voluotary reduction by the Japanese rather than imposition of a quota.

He said if Japan agreed to a voluntary cut-back, be boped U.S. companies would not raise prices simply as a reflection of increased demand for their products. Meanwhile, the Washington Post said Friday that three known supporters of import limitations were Drew Lewis, Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige and Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan.

Seven Republican governors, includiog Ted Milliken of Michigan, the state hardest hit by the decline in the U.S. car industry, would ask President Reagan to move immediately to negotiating a voluntary trade agreement with Japan, the Post said.

might dismiss it as wishful thinking, but increasing numbers of Wall Street analysts are talking hopefully these days of some progress in the battle against U.S. inflation. Some use the word "deflation." others prefer the more cumbersome term "disinflation," because deflation has some nasty connotations in the minds of many people with long memories.

"It conjures up images of breadlines and grainy films of somber men outside the doors of closed banks," observes Raymon F. Devoe Jr., an analyst at Bruns, Nordeman, Rea and Co., recalling the United States' last major experience with deflation in the great depression of the 1930s, Prices came down during that period, but the news was cold comfort indeed to millions of people whose money and jobs were gone.

Whatever name one puts on it, there is scant statistical evidence of any reversal of the inflationary tide just yet. Friday, the U.S. government reported that producer prices of finished goods rose 0.8 per cent in February. after a January increase of 0.9 per cent.

The figures suggested a little moderation, maybe, from last year's intense infladonary pressures, but still a pace at or close to the two-digit level.

The stock market, meanwhile, has yet to display any real "disinflation" Euphoria. In OTTAWA, March 7 (R) — Canada lifted political and economic sanctions against Jran, the external affairs ministry said.

But it said Friday the Canadian embassy in Tehran would not be reopened until the government had reviewed the safety of Canadian staff who would return to Iran.

The ministry said Canada's decision followed the freeing of U.S. hostages January 20 and the acceptance by President Reagan of the agreement for their release worked out with Iran by former President Carter. Meanwhile in Washington in what could

Meanwhile in Washington, in what could become a constitutional test case the justice department asked a judge Friday to dismiss a Boston engineering firm's suit challenging the legality of the U.S.-Iranian hostage settlement.

The motion to dismiss was filed in U.S. district court in Boston, where district judge Andrew Caffrey has before him a suit by Chas. T. Main International Inc., one of the United States' 10 largest engineering companies.

The firm filed suit Feb. 4 asking the court to declare unconstitutional the agreements made with Iran by former President Carter and ratified by President Ronald Reagan. It sought a temporary restraining order to block the transfer of Iranian funds in this country to Iran under those agreements, but judge Caffrey has declined to issue such an order.

The firm is seeking $2.8 million from the Iranian government for design work it completed on a planned hydroelectric project in the Khuzistan region of Iran. The project was scrapped following the downfall of the Shah.

After President Jimmy Carter froze Iranian assets in this country, the firm obtained a treasury department license to file a court action attaching some of those assets.

IMF rules out going back to gold standard

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 7 (AP) — The world money system, based on floating currency rates, will not return to the gold standard, an official of the International Monetary Fund has said.

Stephen A. Silard, assistant general counsel of the 141-member organization, said the fund's former system of tying currencies to a fixed value based on gold fell apart in the 1970s, after the dollar was devaluated.

"I see no prospect of its return to the international monetary system," Silard said in an address to the City Club.

The Hungarian-born lawyer, now a U.S. citizen, is in charge of the fund's legal work in Africa. The fund, established in 1944 during a United Nations monetary conference, began operating in 1947.

Members include the United States, China, all the Western industrialized and OPEC countries, Vietnam and many underdeveloped nations. The Soviet Union, Switzerland and all Soviet bloc nations, except Yugoslavia and Romania, do not belong.

Currencies of 1MF members now are tied to what is called a special drawing right, the principle reserve asset of the fund. The SDR is based on currencies of the United States, France, the United Kingdom, West Germany and Japan and on percentages of the five currency values. All other currencies are expressed in relation to SDR.

According to Silard, gold continues to be a reserve asset of the fund, but the fund won't use it in transactions with member countries. The metal's volatility in private markets sends its value far above its offical price of 35 SDR per ounce, or $40-45, be said.

"With the very instability of gold prices in the private market you see the price shoot up—to above $800 an ounce and now around $460," he said. "Who knows what it will be

Civil servants poised for strike in U.K.

LONDON, March 7 (AFP) — For the first time since the World War II all of Britain's public services will be hit by a 24-hour strike by 500,000 civil servants Monday.

Senior officials in several ministries are hesitating over whether to take part, but nearly all employees of public services and local government have said they will respond to the call by nine unions to protest against a seven per cent pay rise limit imposed by the government.

The unions are demanding 15 per cent, which is roughly in line with the rate of inflation in Britain over the last 12 months.

Union officials bave said that all courts, whether criminal, civil or administrative, will be closed. Social security services, benefit payment centers and tax offices will be unable to open and hospitals will provide a limited service.

Viuseums will be closed and employees of nationalized firms as well as driving school instructors will stay away from work.

Ships docked in nationalized ports will be unable to load or unload and all civil aircraft will be grounded as air traffic controllers join the strike

Prices rise

U.S. unemployment declines

WASHINGTON, March 7 (R) —The U.S. government bas said that inflation and unemployment eased slightly in February, hut said there were signs that the trend might be short-lived.

The Labor Department announced Friday that wholesale prices rose 0.8 per cent last month, down slightly from January's 0.9 per cent increase, while the unemployment rate slipped a notch to 7.3 per cent from 7.4 per cent in January.

The report said the latest round of price rises by the Organization of Petrolcum Exporting Countries (OPEC) and President Reagan's decision to end price controls on domestic oil had led to a 20 per cent rise in energy prices.

Food prices fell, helping to offset the higher energy prices, but some economists have said that food prices should began to rise again next month.

The Labor Department said wholesale prices were up 10.4 per cent over last year.

The Labor Department's approachly

The Labor Department's seasonally adjusted producer price index for finished goods—downslightly from January's 0.9 per cent—translates into about a 10 per cent annual inflation rate. The 7.3 per cent unemployment rate for February followed two months of 7.4 per cent reports and ended a nine-month stretch in which the rate had hovered between 6.5 per cent and 7.7 per

r. However, the decline one-tenth of a percentage point is considered statistically insignificant by the Labor Department, which released both reports Friday.

Consumer prices at the retail level rose by 0.7 per cent in January. The government's cost of living report for February is due March 24

TAIPEI, March 7 (CNA) — RCA Taiwan Limited retained its last year as the No. 1 exporter in the Republic of China with its export sales reaching $180 million, according to the Board of Foreign Trade.

Narrow win for Pacers

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP) — Julius Erving scored 26 points to lead nine Philadelphia players in double figures as the 76ers clobbered the Denver Nuggets 131-112 Friday night.

That victory, combined with the Indiana Pacers' 110-104 decision over the Boston Celtics, gave Philadelphia a one-game lead over Boston in their battle for the Atlantic Division title and the best overall record in the National Basketball Association. Philadelphia is now 55-15, Boston 54-16.

Erving agreed that the easy victory over Denver was much needed by Philadelphia, which had only split its previous 10 games in its poorest stretch of the season.

"With so many players scoring in double figures," said Erving, "it made the task a lot easier and relieved a lot of the pressure, that was reflected in our team effort."

The 76ers went ahead to stay 23-22 on Caldwell Jones' fast-break layup with 3:41 left in the first quarter. Philadelphia led 72-65 at halftime and drew away in the second half.

Lionel Hotlins had 20 points for Philadelphia and Maurice Cheeks, Steve Mix and Darryl Dawinks added 14 apiece. Denver's David Thompson led all scorers with 34 points.

Indiana Pacers 110, Bosion Celtics 104: Indiana center James Edwards, scoreless in the first three quarters, got eight points in the final period and six in the last 4½ minutes to seal Indiana's victory. Billy Knight had a game-high 32 points for Indiana, which outscored Boston 14-6 down the stretch.

Indiana, which had lost two in a row, now trails New York by four games in their race for the home-court advantage in the first-round playoff series between the two teams.

Milwaukee Bucks 122, New York Knicks 111: Reserve forward junior Bridgeman, playing 41 minutes because all-star Marques Johnson missed the game with the flu, scored 34 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to lead Milwaukee to its sixth straight victory. Reserve guard Brian Winters added 25 points, including 11 in the final period, for the Bucks.

Atlanta Hawks 109. New Jersey Nets 106: Dan Roundfield scored 24 points, half of them from the foul line, and Eddie Johnson added 20 as Atlanta handed New Jersey its seventh loss in a row. It was the third victory in the last four games for the Hawks, keeping their slim playoff hopes alive.

Washington Bullets 105, Houston Rockets 104: Milkh Kupchak sank four free throws in the final 1:36 and drew a charging foul in the closing seconds to help the Bullets Io a big road victory. Greg Ballard was high scorer with 24 points for Washington, which trails Chicago by two games in the race for the final Eastern Conference playoff spot.

Phoenix Suns 128, Portland Trail Blazers 107: Guard Walter Davis scored 29 points and seven other Suns scored in double figures

Davis Cup round-up

Argentina struggles

LONDON, March 7 (R) — First round day contests in the reshaped Davis Cup produced some titanic tennis with the top seeds, Argentina struggling back to parity against West Germany. The Australians, seeded joint third, were also struggled to one-one at the end of the day in France.

But "Czechoslovakia, the holders, made short work of their Swisshosts in Zurich. Ivan Lendl and Tomas Smid both won in straight sets to make it 2-0.

In Munich Uli Pinner fought back from two sets down against Argentine Jose-Luis Clerc to win 3-6,3-6,6-4,6-3,6-1. Clerc's compatriot Guillermo Vilas predictably restored the balance with a 6-2,6-3,8-6 victory over Rolf Gebring.

In Lyons, Peter McNamara survived a marathon match to beat Yannick Noah 4-6, 8-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3 and give Australia a boost against France. But Pascal Portes exacted revenge with a 4-6, 6-2, 9-7, 6-4 win over Kim Warwick.

In Carlsbad, John McEnroe gave the United States a 1-0 lead over Mexico when he beat Jorge Lozano, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

In Brighton, Buster Mottram, the British no.1 player, upset Italy's Adriano Panatta 9-7, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4. In the second singles, Richard Lewis, 26, playing his first singles for Britain since 1978, meets Corrado Baraz-

Nastase bows to Buehning

DENVER, March 7 (AP) — Sixth-seeded Fritz Buehning eliminated Ilie Nastase from the $125,000 United Bank Tennis Classic here Friday night, beating the bot-headed Romanian 6-4, 7-6, (8-6) in a much quieter game than Nastase's two previous matches.

Nastase bowed out of the tourney — a stop of the Volvo Grand Prix tour — with a total of 3,750 dollars on fines, just more than his take-home check. Nastase was fined for a shoving match with his first round opponent and for calling the umpire a "fat pig" in the second round.

In another third-round match, defending champion and no. 1 seed Gene Mayer advanced to the semifinals by defeating unseeded Bruce Manson 6-4, 6-4.

Meanwhile, Bill Scanlon won a 7-5 tiebreaker to defeat Eddie Dibbs 7-5, 7-6, Friday to score his third straight upset in the $200,000 world Championship Tennis Invitational in Maryland.

Vijay Amritraj defeated Harold Solomon 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, in another fourth-round match. Brian Teacher defeated Manuel Orantes 7-6, 6-0 in the last match of the evening.

Scanlon, who entered the tournament Wednesday after replacing the injured Eliot Teltscher, now has a 3-1 record and is tied for first-place with Dibbs.

Pallah Avco strengthens title-bid

By Laurie Thomas

JEDDAH, March 7 — While Dallah Avco continued its steady progress towards the league title with a splendid 3-0 win over Saudia, nearest challengers Whittaker may have earned a reprieve from disaster when their match against Lockheed was abandoned one minute from time with Whittaker trailing by 2 goals to one.

Only "may have", though. The start of the match was delayed to such an extent that the second half overran the scheduling on the automatic timing device for the pitch floodlights, causing a blackout just before the final whistle. League secretary Peter Dixon will be asking team managers for a concencus opinion and a decision will be made as soon as possible.

However, Dallah continue to impress their form and only persistent off-side intringements stopped them from a more impressive score against third-placed Saudia. Dallah were held goalless in the first half, but their controlled first-time passing and good movement off the ball gained its reward in the second half. Saudia missed a penalty but eventually Dallah gained revenge for the 0-2 defeat in November. As predicted last week, Hochtief turned on a sound performance to hall Asmara's comeback, a second half winner giving them 2-1 victory.

In Second Division action the vital promotion clash between NJIA and Zahid failed to materialize when Zahid failed to materialize, so forfeiting the match. NJIA stay on top with 14 points from nine matches but are hard pressed by Toyota who handed out an 11-1 thrashing to Whittaker Villa and moved to 13 points from 8 matches. Toyota play Al Hada this Tuesday (March 10) and then NJIA next week (March 16) in what will be vital promotion clashes for all three teams.

J & P moved clear in the Third Division after taking two points from IAL with a 5-0 win. The score was flattering for J & P who survived a penalty and conceded a lot of possession to IAL but the latter squandered their chances. NJIA slipped to second place as A.S.T. held them to a 1-1 draw. A.S.T. actually led until the closing minutes when NJIA fired a controversial equalizer to take a point.

A.D.S. nearly took their first point, holding Sogex to 2-2 until the closing stages, but conceded a late goal, and stay bottom without a point from eight matches.

ences exist between the Carpenter family and some of the other owners as to how the baseball business should be conducted," Car-

Carpenter said in his statement that he and his family endorsed the position taken by management in the most recent battle with the Players' Association over the issue of player compensation for a free agent, a player who plays out his contract to sign with another club.

The club owners want an established player as compensation in the event they lose a player in the free agent draft. They have offered the Players' Association a plan whereby 15 players would be protected on each team's 40-man roster and the compensating player would come from the remaining

The players have rejected the plan and threatened to strike May 29 unless it is junked or a satisfactory compromise reached.

Carpenter said the re-entry draft of 1980 was "the final nail in the coffin." He said he had hoped the owners would see the light and stop the multimillion dollar bidding for free power. Vanderbelt tangles with seventhranked Kentucky, the second runner-up.

Several things have been bappening in Major-League Baseball spring training camps this week. Dennis Leonard, whose 75 victories the past four years are more than that amassed by any other right-handed pitcher, says be will probably become a free agent unless the Kansas City Royals sign him before the end of spring training. "I don't know what I'm worth," said the 29-year-old Leonard, who is in the final year of a five-year contract that pays him $180,000 a year. "I can just read where so-and-so is making $600,000 a year. I look at what he's done and what I've done and I say, "feez, if he's worth that, I'm probably worth more." Leonard was 20-11 in 1980 when the Royals won the American League pennant and has won at least 20 games in three of the past four seasons since 1975, only Baltimore's Jim Palmer and Philadelphia's Steve Carlton have won more games

One week into spring training, Tom Seaver knows it's 100 early 10 tell whether his offseason conditioning program belped insulate his pitching arm from the effects of aging. But the three-time young award winner is certain of one thing that workouts have't gotten any easier. "I feel borrible, miserable," Seaver said working out at the Cincinnan reds training camp. "I'm stiff and sore, I guess I'm 36-year-old or something. When 1 got here, I feli just great. Bui you feel this way until you get into shape. It will work itself

Free-agent catcher Carlton Fisk, apparently nearing a contract decision, left his new Hampshire home to fly to San Diego and meet his agent Jerry Kupstein. Fisk was expected to meet several teams and talk with others. With spring training already underway it seems certain that Fisk will be signing within the next week.

WARSAW, March 7 (AP) - Independent union leaders met behind closed doors here Saturday to discuss a new government crackdown on dissidents and a strike alert in a major industrial center that could unravel Poland's renuous labor peace.

Some 40 members of the national leaders of Solidarity, the independent union formed during last year's labor unrest, crowded into the Warsaw polytechnic school's student club for the meeting, called Thursday after police detained one of the union's advisers.

Since the detention of Jacek Kuron, wbo was not present at the meeting Saturday, police have tried to band a summons to another dissident union adviser and filed formal charges against four ultra-nationalist dissidents Friday.

Authorities charged Robert L. Moczulski, 51, and three other members of the "Confederation of Independent Poland" with activities aimed against the "basic political interests of the state," the Polish news agency

PAP reported Friday.
Solidarity leader Lech Walesa arrived in Warsaw for the meeting. He said a strike alert in the central Polish city of Lodz and the "general situation" in Poland would be discussed.

Walesa dispelled rumors that be was expected to meet with new Premier Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, who has called for 90 days of labor peace so that the government can restore the faltering economy and create order from the chaos that has troubled Poland since strikes erupted last July. Sources at the Solidarity meeting said it was not likely that Walesa would meet the premier Saturday.

The meeting of union leaders, came on a free Saturday, and most Warsaw streets were empty. But even the Communist Party newspaper Trybuna Ludu admitted that there were rising tensions. It spoke of a "wave of heightened temperature of the socio-political life in the country" in an editorial critical of a planned student meeting Sunday to mark the 13th anniversary of student riots here.

Kuron and Vichnik, as well as other KOR members, are closely identified with the 1968 events that included clashes with police and led to hundreds of arrests. Both were expected to speak at the university Sunday.

Trybuna Ludu said it was writing about the 1968 events because "right now, on the wave of heightened temperature of the sociopolitical life in the country, there emerge intentions to use the anniversary of the events of March, 1968 to revive the old and create new divisions."

Without naming those who, it said, are "fanning up tension" the paper said it could not remain indifferent to the attempts at using the March events for stirring up an dividing the community.

Meanwhile, Lech Walesa was quoted Friday as saying there is a slight "possibility" his Solidarity union would try to ruh Poland if the current government fails. But he was quoted by Milan's Corriere Della Sera as saving he did not wish to go into the government and he believed it was highly improbable that the union would govern.

LONDON, March 7 (AP) - William Rees-Mogg bowed out Saturday after 14 years as editor of The Times of London with an article in the newspaper that was beaded My Resumption of Liberty and began "This is the last issue of The Times 1 shall edit." "I bave been too sensible for too long, and now I need not be sensible again, at least for the time being," be wrote tongue-in-cheek.

He said that after 14 years, under the "restraints of impartiality" imposed by the famous 190-year-old newspaper, he felt like the prisoners at the end of their term bursting out of their jail bouse with a song of joy on

Rees-Mogg, the son of an American-born actress, became editor of The Times in 1967. His successor as editor of the newspaper that ranks along with roast beef and cricket as a symbol to the rest of the world of all that is British is Harold Evans, editor of the Times 's weekly stablemate The Sunday Times.

Chilean businessman seeks loan from Pahlavi

CAIRO, March 7 (AP) - A Chilean businessman sent a letter to Cairo's weekly October Magazine asking it, on his behalf, to request Reza Pahlavi, the self-proclaimed Sbah of Iran, for a loan of $3,000 the magazine said Saturday. Eduardo Paolo, who owns a photocopying business in Chile, said in his letter that be had previously approached the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi with the same request, "but circumstances did not allow him to grant' the loan, the magazine said.

Paolo said he needed the money to buy a new photocopying machine as his current one was old and nonfunctional and he needed to maintain his business as he had a wife and seven children to feed, the magazine quoted from the letter. Reza Pahlavi proclaimed himself Reza Shah II last October on his 20th birthday, three months after his father died of cancer in exile here.

Ecuador denies accord with Peru on border

OUITO, March 7 (R) - Ecuador said Friday night that no agreement had been reached with Peru in their border dispute. A statement from the presidency here criticized Peru for announcing earlier Friday an agreement on separation of their forces in the Condor mountain range, scene of two outbreaks of fighting last month.

"At no time was there an agreement with Peru considering that the neighboring country bas not respected the undertaking to remove its troops (from the border area)", the statement said.

Salvadoran army claims victory over insurgents

SAN SALVADOR, March 7 (AP) - A country insurgency operation that ended Friday morning in a northern town ended in an army victory over anti-government guerrillas and claimed 35 lives, some of them soldiers, military sources said. The operation was in San Antonio De Los Ranchos, 80 kms north of here, but there was no indication from the sources how many soldiers were killed or wounded, the army said.

New fighting was reported Friday in San Lorenzo, 72 kms northeast of the capital, where last week the government reported wiping out anti-government guerrillas. There was no word on casualties, but one military source said leftist guerrillas there bad killed "hundreds" of peasants for cooperating with the military in the previous operations.

The government said Friday it was still seeking rightist spokesman Roberto D' Abuisson, whose arrest was ordered this week calling for a military coup to topple the civilian-mibtary junta formed by the Christian Democrats.

Foreign Minister Fidel Chavez Mena said a team of envoys sent to Europe last week to convass support for the Salvadoran government had returned with their mission "completed satisfactorily." Mena said the team met with a number of governments, and "we bave demonstrated to our friends in the world that the situation in our country is different than what the Communists and their allies say it is." He did not say what nations the team

The opposition drive to topple the government has claimed 16,000 lives since the junta was formed by leaders of the Oct. 15, 1979 coup that chased rightist President Carlos Humberto Romero from power. The govemment is challenged by extreme rightists and by guerrillas dominated by leftist leadership.

While controversy swirls around this U.S.-backed government, the junta moved ahead with its reforms and announced Thursday formation of a three-man commission to draft a new law authorizing congressional elections in 1982.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union accused the United States Friday of making "malicious inventions" about Soviet and Cuban involvement in El Salvador to mask its own intereferace in the central American country. UNITED NATIONS, March 7 (R) - The U.N.
